Rail Strike Looms As Men Await Wage Cut

Strike Vote May Follow, Says Jewell

CHICAGO, June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—A rail strike threatened the nation today as railway unions awaited the impending clash by the United States Railroad Labor board in the wages of additional classes of employees other than train service men.

B. M. Jewell, head of the Railway Employees' Department of the American Federation of Labor, declared that the wage reductions would probably result in a strike vote following next Tuesday's conference of railroad union chiefs at Cincinnati.

Leaders of eleven rail unions will take part in the conference, Mr. Jewell said.

Widely circulated reports have indicated that a decision in the wage reduction sought by the carriers for 500,000 shopmen would be forthcoming today or early next week, and that it would be somewhat less than the cut announced last Sunday for maintenance of way laborers which averaged about ten per cent.

As a result the grand officers of the maintenance of way union have distributed strike ballots.

Railroad executives have stressed the wage reduction proposals for shopmen because of the board's decision recently in one case prohibiting farming out of shop work by the railroads at lower rates of pay than provided in labor board rulings.

Rail Unions May Use Injunction In Wage Fight

CINCINNATI, O., June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Possibility of the use of the writ of injunction in an effort to hold up the wage reductions decreed by the railroad labor board will be one of the subjects discussed at the conference to be held by executives of railroad brotherhoods and organizations in Cincinnati next week, it was reported in local railroad labor circles. Should it be the opinion of legal advisers of the brotherhoods that there are grounds for asking such a proceeding of the courts, it would be an alternative to a strike vote, it was said.

Railroad men said that if the Pennsylvania railroad could hold up even the announcement of the decision of the board by an appeal to the courts, as happened in the case involving the legality of a ballot for election of a workers' committee to confer on rules and working conditions, then it was declared the same would hold in any activity of the board.

However, it was said, there are certain labor men who favor on the use of the writ of injunction on behalf of labor. They take the position that since organized labor has so frequently declined against the injunction, it would weaken their position to now seek it.

Grand President E. H. Fitzgerald of the Brotherhood of Railroad Clerks, acting for B. M. Jewell, president of the Railway Employees' Department of Labor, has engaged a convention hall in which to hold the conference next Tuesday.

BRITISH POUR TROOPS INTO IRELAND

LONDON, June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The arrival of two British destroyers at Belfast is reported in a dispatch to the Central News.

BELFAST, June 3.—(By Associated Press)—The British forces in northern Ireland were re-enforced today by the arrival of twelve officers and ninety-seven men of the royal air force. They were followed by twelve fighting planes.

A battery of Howitzers was also landed. Their destination is believed to be Enniskillen, near the southern border of County Fermanagh, where there is much military activity.

Several troop ships bringing English and Scottish regulars also entered the harbor today.

The military in Fermanagh are commandeering automobiles and boats, and it is believed that the recapture of the Balleek Silkenett recently seized by Irish republican army forces is contemplated.

Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, on his arrival from London, told the newspaper men that his visit had been profitable and that he was pleased with the results so far as northern Ireland was concerned. The British cabinet, he said, was now fully advised of the situation from Ulster's viewpoint.

The twelve Bristol fighting planes will be flown over from England this afternoon and will be quartered at Aldergrove, 18 miles from this city.

The crown forces are gradually replacing the Ulster special constabulary men who have been on duty along the border and the latter are returning to police work.

ARMED MEN GUARD THE STREETS OF TEXAS TOWN

KIRVIN, TEXAS, June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Race riots of a serious nature, reported last night as being feared near here, had failed to materialize early today. Armed men guarded the streets of Kirvin, and a house occupied by negroes near Simsboro, about five miles from here, but according to the peace officers, little further trouble was expected.

Deputy sheriffs and policemen from Mexico who hurried here when the reports first went out returned to their homes last night and Freestone county officials informed many who had started for Kirvin that they should return as the sheriff and his deputies had the situation under control.

The reports of a riot followed attempts of the city marshal of Kirvin, Otis King, and a deputy sheriff to arrest Leroy Gibson, a negro. Gibson is said to have tried to escape and was shot and captured. As the officers started to their automobile, shots were fired at them and they returned the fire. Allie Gibson, a brother of the prisoner, was killed. The prisoner is said to have grabbed one of the officers and they were killed. Neither of the officers was injured.

The most prevalent report was that about 75 negroes heavily armed had barricaded themselves in a large house on a farm. Investigation failed to disclose them in the house.

In the meantime hundreds of men from nearby towns started to the scene of the trouble.

The community is near where a 17-year-old girl was attacked and murdered a few weeks ago. Three negroes were hanged to death and one hanged for alleged connection with the case. It is said that Leroy Gibson was sought to explain some things in the same case.

Dry Agents Seize Tug; Arrest Crew

NEW YORK, June 3.—Federal prohibition agents early today seized the ocean-going tug Ripple in the harbor off Brooklyn, arrested twelve members of her crew and fired thirty pistol shots at nearly a score of launches which had gathered to take off a cargo of liquor. As the agents had no craft, the launches escaped.

The tug, which was used as a mine layer during the war, arrived off Ambrose light, three days ago, but waited until last night before attempting to slip into the harbor. Agents disguised as longshoremen searched the water front, finally locating the tug near the Erie basin.

At a signal the agents, who meanwhile had been reinforced by a detail of police, rushed for the tug. When the agents climbed on board the tug they said they saw the crew throwing rifles into the water. There was a hand to hand struggle before the crew was arrested.

Mrs. McCormick Withdraws Objection To The Marriage

CHICAGO, June 3.—The court fight against Mathilde McCormick's international marriage to Max Oser ended abruptly in less than two minutes proceedings in probate court today when Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, the girl's mother, withdrew her petition for a restraining order to prevent Mathilde's marriage to the Swiss horseman.

Mathilde's father, who yesterday declined reelection as president of the International Harvester Company, and became chairman of the board of directors, was referred to by attorneys as an indulgent father who has been accustomed to give his children what they desire. He has persistently refused to discuss Mathilde's proposed marriage, but friends indicated that under the surface he and his former wife were not greatly at discord over Oser.

NAVY BALLOON ONLY CRAFT STILL IN AIR

CHICAGO, June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Lieutenant W. F. Reed, naval pilot in the national balloon race, which started at Milwaukee Wednesday, either is lost in the wilds of Canada or has met with a serious accident, government weather bureau officials and aviation authorities here said today.

CHICAGO, June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Lieutenant W. F. Reed, of Pensacola, Florida, sole entry in the national balloon race, which started at Milwaukee Wednesday, was the only pilot unaccounted for when dawn streaked the skies today.

Swung below the big silver gray bag which bore the marks of the United States navy, Lieutenant Reed and his aide, Kit Mullennax, were believed to be drifting over the Great Lakes region, although their location was problematical. From the start of their uncharted flight, Lieutenant Reed and his companion were virtually lost in the skies.

Determination of what three pilots will represent America in the international balloon races which start in Switzerland this summer, awaited only reports from the navy aviator.

It virtually has been assumed that the American entries in the international race will include one army pilot and one civilian, Major Oscar Westover, of Washington, D. C., and H. E. Honeywell, of St. Louis.

While enthusiasts awaited word of Lieutenant Reed, Major Westover held high honors of the race, having covered a distance of approximately 300 miles when he landed near Lake St. John in the Province of Quebec, Honeywell, when he descended south of Joplin, Missouri, had floated 550 miles from the starting point at Milwaukee. Both of these balloonists covered considerable more distance than any of their competitors, except the missing Reed, and are virtually certain of entries in the international event.

Explorer Scheduled To Leave Today

SEATTLE, WASH., June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—When Captain Roald Amundsen's exploration ship Maud sails from here today for her long voyage through the ice packs of the uncharted North Polar basin, one of the most complete and extensive scientific expeditions ever undertaken in that region will get underway.

The expedition is a resumption of the effort begun by Captain Amundsen in 1918, under the auspices of the Norwegian government, to drift past the North Pole with the ice floes, minutely studying phenomena of a vast area never before visited by white men, and to secure data which the explorer expects may revolutionize present day meteorological and oceanographical knowledge of the northern hemisphere.

Special investigation will be made to determine whether land exists in the neighborhood of the Pole, as some oceanographers maintain.

The two airplanes—one capable of carrying nine passengers and the other a three seater—and the wireless outfit, the explorer deems the most important items of the vessel's equipment. With the planes—the eyes of the ship—he will make an intensive exploration of the huge area of almost a million square miles covering the "roof of the world."

By means of the wireless equipment, Captain Amundsen expects to keep in touch with the world and perhaps to flash the message that, following Peary, he has reached the North Pole.

Four times daily he will send wireless messages to Washington, giving meteorological data expected to aid measurably in forecasting weather conditions throughout the globe.

Every precaution has been taken to guard the expedition against disaster.

Amundsen is skeptical over the theory that an explorer can "live on the country" in that part of the world, and the Maud has been stocked with provisions to last seven years.

To provide recreation in the long Arctic winter, many books have been added to the stores. Six hundred pounds of candy form an important item of the cargo. The Maud is expected to reach Nome within three weeks and by July 1 to be heading out into the Arctic.

Captain Amundsen expects to drift past the Pole from a point off northeast Siberia to Spitzbergen, within five or six years.

The trip is not one of adventure, rather, strictly scientific.

"We are taking the finest scientific instruments ever sent north," says Amundsen. "We hope to discover more useful data than all other expeditions combined."

All elements will be plumbed as we drift along. The ocean's depth will be sounded, (temperature of the water, water currents, etc. With our airplanes and photographic apparatus we will study surface conditions for hundreds of miles to each side of the vessel.

"Results of observations will be sent by wireless or radio to the Norwegian government as we go along."

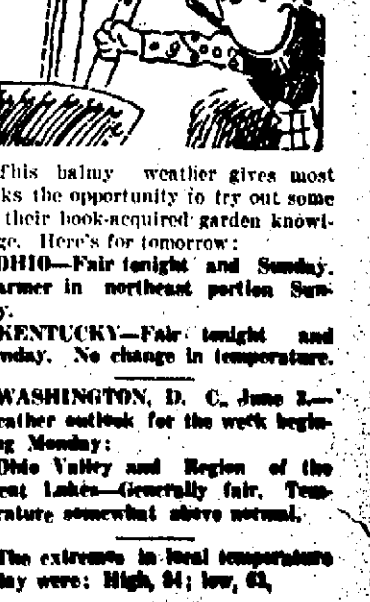

In the food cargo that has been packed aboard the Maud, and which is slated to last seven years, are tons of bonbons and pickled walnuts.

"Eating is one of the few comforts we will have and we want the best," says the explorer.

Another group of packages are marked: "Not to be opened until December 25, 1922." "Not to be opened until December 25, 1923," etc. These are Christmas presents. Enough to last seven years. They are gifts of friends in Norway.

PRESIDENT HARDING CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTING TO MUZZLE THE PRESS

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—President Harding was charged today in the senate by Senator Stanley, Democrat, Kentucky, with attempting to "muzzle, if not muzzle, the press to prevent publication of attacks on Attorney General Daugherty and with making a 'desperate attempt to shield a man who dares not shield himself; to protect a man who dares not protect himself.'"

In the course of his attack, Senator Stanley assailed Mr. Daugherty as "the nefarious and crooked pardon broker who makes it his business to deceive the president that men may plunder women in time of peace and rob the federal government in time of war."

Senator Stanley read an article from the Philadelphia Public Ledger in which it was stated that President Harding yesterday had taken "a two sided filing at 'political black-guards," who attacked cabinet officers. Demanding to know who were these "political blackguards," the Kentucky senator said they were two members of congress who served their country in the war and senators "representative of sovereign states."

The senator asked if the president "in this desperation" finding "no other to defend Mr. Daugherty," would denounce as "blackguards" senators who criticized the attorney general.

FORD'S OFFER ON MUSCLE SHOALS RECOMMENDED BY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The house military committee voted today to report the Ford proposal to the house and recommend its adoption. Recommendation, however, will be made by the committee in reporting the Ford proposal that the Gorgas steam power plant, which is sought by the Detroit manufacturer, be eliminated from the properties disposed of by the government.

The action of the committee followed discussion of differences in the offer as made by Mr. Ford and the model proposal evolved by the committee after inquiry into the offer of the Detroit manufacturer and others. Complete agreement was reached by the committee members and representatives of Mr. Ford on the fertilizer provisions which had been in dispute.

The committee in deciding to report the offer to the house complied with the request of Mr. Ford that the house itself be permitted to vote upon acceptance or rejection of his offer.

What action Mr. Ford might take in the matter should the house vote to accept the recommendation of the committee for elimination of the Gorgas plant, was problematical.

The committee agreed to meet again Monday morning to discuss preparations of the reports that will be submitted to the house with the offer. The majority report, it was said, would contend for the elimination of the Gorgas property, while a minority opinion probably signed by nine of the twenty-one members, would be submitted urging that the Gorgas plant be included in accordance with Mr. Ford's final offer.

Will Conduct Revival

Twenty-eight members and guests of Division A of the Central L. T. L. were, enjoyably entertained at the home of Mildred Gulliker, 1828 Eighth street, last night. The affair was also in celebration of the seventh birthday of little Miss Gulliker, and the twelfth birthday of Virgie Mustetter.

An interesting program of songs, recitations and instrumental selections were given by a number of young people, including Henrietta Daniels, Prudence Boyd, Frances Nickle, Clara Price, Thelma Davis, Ruth Carter, Nancy Beasley, Mildred Gulliker, Howard Cooper, George Beasley, Mary Jane Backus and Hannah Reider.

Two new members, Prudence Boyd and Ruth Carter, were admitted to the League. At the conclusion of the program, the children marched to music played on the piano, to the dining room, where delicious refreshments were served. A large cake, bearing twelve candles around the rim, and seven in the center, graced the table.

Plans were made for a picnic to be held together with the members of Division B, on July 7th, at Millbrook Park.

Division B, in charge of Mrs. John Davis, met last evening at the home of Lucille and Adeline Daniels, 1807 Eighth street, with 22 members present. After the usual business the evening was spent socially, and later refreshments were served by the hostesses. Starr Piano Co. Head Dies

DAXTON, O., June 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Henry Gennett, 70, president of the Starr Piano Company, of Richmond, Indiana, and head of the Gennett Record Corporation, died in a local hospital early today, following a nervous breakdown.

LIFELESS BODY IS FOUND; REVOLVER NEAR

With a bullet hole over the right ear, the lifeless body of William Miller, aged 55, was found in a room over his small store one mile south of Oak Hill Saturday morning. A revolver with one blank cartridge in the chamber was found beside Miller. Coroner Evans, who was called and viewed the body said indications pointed to the fact that the fatal wound was self-inflicted but he would not return a verdict to this effect until all phases of the tragic affair had been investigated. Mr. Miller had placed his store in charge of Miss Bernice Dunn, and when she opened it at the usual hour this morning she thought Mr. Miller had gone to his work in the Dee, brick plant in Oak Hill. When he failed to show up there, his boss, L. C. Foster, went to his store and going to Miller's bedroom on the second floor found his lifeless body. The revolver, which was nearly, was not touched until Coroner Evans arrived. Mr. Miller had been located in Oak Hill for 10 years and was a splendid citizen. He has a wife and daughter living in Akron.

He had been in his usual health and had not complained or had not shown any signs of despondency. He worked an usual Friday and did considerable work in his store after arriving home last night.

HOLY REDEEMER CLASS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Seven graduates, four young women and three young men, who formed the 1922 Class of Holy Redeemer high school, received their diplomas when the 1922 commencement exercises were held last night in the public high school auditorium with a crowd of several hundred persons present to witness the graduation exercises. The members of the Class occupied the center of the stage with Father J. E. McGuirk and Mr. Benjamin J. Crahan who delivered the class address. Those on the stage presented an inspiring sight to the other school students who were in the audience and who are looking forward to the time they will take the places occupied by the 1922 Class members last night.

The graduation exercises included several well arranged musical selections in addition to the class address and presentation of diplomas. The work of the young women of the piano showed to a splendid advantage the progress that is being made in the teaching of music in the school.

The subject of the class address was "Does Education Pay?" and Mr. Crahan in concluding upon his subject presented most forceful facts and arguments showing without doubt that education does pay.

The class this year included: Classical Course—Cecilia, Alice Dearford, Dorothy Margaret Lillick, Latin-Scientific Course—William Barry McNamara, George Henry Walters. General Course—Marion Charles Schlenker.

Commercial Course—Emma Leah Maynard, Clara Vivian O'Brien.

The opening number on the program was "Come To The Day Feast of Song," by the Choral Club of the school with Miss Dolores Maier at the piano. This was followed by two pleasing piano duets, the first played by Ruth White and Mary Margaret Kean and the second by Dolores Maier and Dorothy Lillick.

Father J. E. McGuirk, after a few remarks befitting the occasion, introduced as an ideal parent and ideal citizen, Mr. Crahan.

The speaker, in his address, said: "I am pleased to meet you on this occasion and to say an encouraging word to the graduates of this class. After a long period of perseverance and study, you have reached the goal of your ambitions and now comes the parting of the ways. You are introduced as students who have distinguished themselves from others and I bespeak for you a future success. You are free to face on this day the cold, cold world and to face the perplexities, disappointments and trials of life, but the person who is fortified by a Christian education need have no fear of the difficulties that time may have in store for him."

Never before in the history of this great nation was there such a demand for trained minds, hearts and hands as there is today. Does education pay? That is the question raised not only by the young but by the old, not only by the poor but even by the rich, not only by the illiterate but occasionally by those with cultured minds and trained hands. One of the most striking characteristics of the English speaking people is their spirit of industry which is the result of the free energy of individuals in a society which leaves personal initiative untrammelled. The life of America has developed more rapidly and more fully on the industrial side than any other. The great captains of industry today in America's tireless enterprises are men who appreciated the value of education, men who surrounded themselves with trained minds and trained hands and, this more than any other one phase of industrial life has done for their success. In the biography of that great railroad builder, James J. Hill, we learn a priceless lesson. His success was undoubtedly attributable in a great degree to the fact that as an organizer he surrounded himself with college graduates and men trained to do the tasks set out for them better than their fellow men. He looked in building up his organization, not for genius, not for the jack of all trades, not for the man who had a little knowledge of every profession, as they are passing as useful citizens, but looked for the man with a specialized education, a man who could do some one thing better than anyone else. The great iron and steel master, Andrew Carnegie, was also a man who appreciated education. He left behind millions of dollars. He also left to the great American people an organization that is nowhere in the world equalled for efficiency. All due to the fact that he appreciated college trained men and especially men whose minds were susceptible to learning. The United States is in the midst of an era of industrial consolidation, of which we have thus far seen but the beginning. The line of succession must sooner or later be established leading highly trained organizers to posts of responsibilities. These consolidations may properly be viewed as just as much labor saving machinery which have been rendered possible by special education and refined product of our technical schools. We are told that Michael Angelo, while walking with some friends through an obscure street in the city of Florence one day noticed a block of fine marble lying neglected in the gutter and half buried in soil and rubbish. Regardless of his holiday attire he at once began clearing away the dirt and striving to lift it from the mire in which it lay. His companions in astonishment asked him what he was doing and what he wanted with that discarded block of stone. "There is an angel in that block of marble," was his reply, "and I must set it free." He had it removed to his studio and by patient toil with mallet and chisel, he transformed it into an angel form of such beauty that men marvelled at the thought that could create a conception so divine. What to others was but a rude unshapely marble of stone, to his educated eye represented the buried potentiality of art. Why? Because he was educated in his special line of work. It was this that enabled him to see the beautiful image in that piece of stone which his companion could not even imagine. The avenues of appreciation of art, music and literature that an education opens to its possessor are almost unlimited and the finer things of life are not so apt to be lost sight of in the mad rush for business supremacy. "Education," says Varie, "is a companion which no misfortune can depress, no crime destroy, no enemy enslave, no despotism enslave, at home a friend, abroad an introduction, in solitude a solace, and in society an ornament. Without it, what is man's share, a revolting savage."

Through education is awakening a just sense of duty, opening the eyes of the soul to the great purpose of life. It is not so much giving words as thoughts or mere axioms. It is not teaching to be honest because "Honesty is the best policy," but because it is right. It is teaching the individual to love the good, to be true in action because so in heart to love and serve God not from fear but from veneration in his personal character.

In conclusion, my friends, I want to leave a thought with you in quoting the auspicious words of Longfellow, who said:

"Life is real, life is earnest, And the grave is not its goal; Dust thou art and to dust returnest Was not spoken of the soul."

Following the address of Mr. Crahan, Father J. E. McGuirk addressed the members of the class, after which he presented the diplomas. Father McGuirk, in his remarks, said:

"Dear Graduates: In the beautiful and joyful scene before us, you are central figures upon whom all the eyes of heaven and earth are centered. For the happy destiny of five immortal souls for time and eternity is involved. Coupled of person and character dressed; amidst the charms of music and flowers; surrounded by age, youth and beauty; inspired by fervent anticipations of hearty congratulations and felicitations of Holy Redeemer school faculty, parents, relations and friends, you are like little children, docile and loving, to your Alma Mater to hear her word of good cheer and receive from her hand well earned diplomas which are passports to college and higher education.

Far be it from me, dear graduates, to mar the beauty of young love's dreams of true honor, glory, power, wealth and pleasure. Is it not the universal desire of mankind to be happy? Such is the only true vision—the spiritual vision of life which hopefully looks forward to a destiny of love and bliss—the possession of God, who is the end of man's creation.

The lesson of this hour is one of deep spiritual significance. With great privilege and pleasure your superintendent brings you a message from the kingdom of your Creator. "Seek first the kingdom of God and his justice and all else shall be added." Spiritual perfection is no bar to highest worldly success. In fact, there is no lasting success here or hereafter without God, religion and morality.

Again—"What will it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his own soul? Or what will a man give in exchange for his soul? Foolish man is he who would prefer a spurious to a genuine dollar. The value of man's immortal soul and his blissful destiny is without any other counterpart or compensation. Dear graduates: The world will tell you, "Knowledge is power." Rather should it be proclaimed, "Love is power. For what is knowledge without love? Nothing. The inspired authority of St. Paul declares it. 'If I have all knowledge and know all prophecy and mysteries and have not charity, I am nothing.' The man who spends himself in the pursuit of gathering, increasing and hoarding of money, is justly called a miser because his vision of life is bounded by the rim of the almighty dollar—instead of the circle which embraces God and mankind. Preferring the love of money to God, his Creator, and man, his brother, he is a monster of his race. Last week a luminous example of man's proper vision of life, its duties and of happiness in making our fellow men—unfortunate and suffering human beings, happy, was given us by one hundred citizens, regardless of race or creed, who with a superb leader, forgot themselves, their lusts, time and pleasure, to give generously of their money and work, and at the end of six days intense campaign, rolled up one hundred and thirty-six thousand dollars for the building of Mercy Hospital which shall be a glorious monument to their high visions of life, loving and sympathetic with their suffering brothers. This true vision of life comes from trust and highest knowledge.

Elementary education is the foundation of high school education. This education is the foundation of college education, which in turn is the foundation of university education. This wide vision of life gives man his goodness and usefulness and makes possible all the institutions of Christianity and civilization. Church, state, home, school and society are but the agencies of this higher vision of life which makes the world a better and happier place to live in.

Just now, as you stand on the threshold of your Alma Mater, about to say goodbye to your devoted teachers, and to quit the hall of learning, pause long enough to settle in your minds the vexing questions. Shall I go to work or to college? Reflect, at this moment, that your teachers, parents, citizens of Portsmouth and the whole country are intently gazing upon you as the hope of Church, Republic, home, school and society. If possible, let your decision be most unselfish. Let it be for God and country. To this noble end, consecrate your young lives and all your efforts to overcome the obstacles of humble conditions, the temptations to hoard money, to squander valuable talents and opportunity in mere commonplace services. As devoted children, kneeling at the feet of beloved parents, seek their favored blessings, so your Alma Mater with motherly love and encouragement blesses you, bids God speed to your ambition and efforts to enter college, wherein you may fit yourselves to spend your lives in the great work of God; in promoting the welfare of American institutions and the progress, prosperity and happiness of American people. Go where duty calls you and May God bless you.

The closing number on the program was "The Hour of Parting," a song by the high school Glee Club, with Miss Maier at the piano.

Columbia Graphophone Co. Going Ahead

NEW YORK, June 3.—"Six months' work on the part of the creditors of the Columbia Graphophone Company has culminated in a satisfactory arrangement whereby the indebtedness of the company, both principal and interest, at the discretion of a readjustment committee, is postponed for a period of three years, leaving the company free from embarrassment from individual actions and in position to proceed aggressively with its new policies of production and dealer co-operation," says H. L. Wilson, president of the company, in his first public statement since the readjustment plan was effected.

"The Columbia Company is not and never has been in the hands of a receiver. A petition for such action was filed by small holders of stock but the plea was dismissed promptly. The agreement of a majority of note holders against the company to defer payments both on interest and principal from April 1, 1922, to August 1, 1925, after deducting an amount not in excess of aggregate bank deposits on September 15, 1921, is healthy indication of the faith they have in the company under normal conditions. This plan could have been blocked by objections from 25 per cent of the note holders, but not three per cent objected."

"All this means that the company has cleared its decks of the unfortunate situation created by the sudden stoppage of business, the sudden falling off in sales and the accumulation of inventories, and the management is in position to devote its entire energies to carrying forward the company's business of serving the public demand for the best that can be produced in the way of instruments and records, and it is the earnest intention of the management to devote itself to carrying out this policy."

"The volume of business in the last month, considering the season and the uncertainty as to the success of efforts to effect a reorganization plan that would fully meet the approval of all concerned, has been more than satisfactory. Improved products, the closest possible relations with our family of dealers and strictest economies in production are our confident policy. We will continue to develop a steadily improving business outlook for the company. Through the period of depression, we did not let up on experimentation tending to improve our products. As a result, we can say definitely that discoveries have been made in our plants that are of the utmost significance to all lovers of phonographic music."

With the financial policy of the company determined, additional confidence has been created through the type of man at the head of the company. Mr. Wilson has 18 years of practical experience in all phases of the business and is recognized as being fully familiar with the details of production, dealer policies and publicity. His record is one of progress tempered with conservatism.

At the evening worship, which begins at 7:30 p. m., instead of the earlier time, an illustrated lecture will be presented, "China and the Chinese." This is one of the most comprehensive studies of this subject that has been done in pictures by our Centenary Office. The special music will consist of one number, a solo, "To Thee I Fly," by Mr. Leon Marshall.

The public is cordially invited to these services.

MANLY M. E. CHURCH

C. W. Bailey, Pastor

Sunday school, 9:30 a. m.

Never was there a series of lessons studied by Sunday school scholars that seemed to fit better into the civic and personal life of today. The lessons are being discussed during the week by those who study them in the classroom on Sunday. Why not come and hear the lesson taught and then be able to apply the principles of the Bible to our everyday problems. Jehovahism cut the prophets' written message into ribbons and then burned them, but he did not destroy the truth: Men may sneer at God's truth and turn a deaf ear to it and yet have to suffer for their rashness. Study God's word and put it in to practice and you will have all the forces of heaven function in your favor. Disregard them and they will prove disastrous.

Sermon at 10:15 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Note the change in the evening hour.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I have been going with a man for nine months and want to know if it would be all right to kiss him good-night.

SWEETIE.
If you have been going with him for nine months, don't kiss him unless you are engaged to him. Even then I would advise you to go easy on the smooches. Remember there are 182,426 germs in every kiss.

Dear Dolly—Please tell me something about eating at a hotel. I have never been to a hotel, and I expect to stop at several on my honeymoon soon, and I don't want to act so green that every one will know that I came from a hick town.

BRIDE-TO-BE.
When entering the dining room you should follow the waiter to a table and your husband should follow you. It is the man's place to order, but you will be the boss, then, and of course he will have to consult you, as to what you like and how much to order, etc. If you don't like the food at the hotel, just get a room there and take your meals at a restaurant or eat in the lunch room of the various department stores.

Dear Dolly—Last winter I met a boy at a dance and he seemed to like me from the beginning. We went together off and on and every time there was anything going on he would take me. He was very good looking and attentive, too. Not long ago I met another man, not half so good looking and who could not compare with the first one in any way. Just because I danced with the last man a great deal, the first one got jealous, and has not paid any attention to me since. Do you suppose he is waiting for me to apologize? Is it proper for me to ask his pardon?

IN DOUBT.
You have nothing to apologize for. The man had not asked you to marry him and he had no right to object to the attention you permitted the other boy to pay you. It would be a mistake to say you are sorry for something that was not your fault. A man who is so jealous, that he is willing to give you up would make a most unsatisfactory husband. Try to forget him, unless he makes the first move towards a reconciliation.

Dear Dolly—I am a girl of 18 and go with a man of 22. I like him and he likes me, but he is acting differently of late, and gives me the impression that he is tiring of me. What would you do? Should I give him a chance to go with other girls? I like him too well to give him up for good.

MAYBELLE.
Yes, give him a chance to go with other girls. It would be well for you to go with other boys, too, if you are not already doing so. Do not let him come to see you every time he asks.

The following from the Ashland (Ky.) Independent will be read with interest as Miss Peebles is well known in this city, and is a relative of Mr. John Peebles of Second street.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Peebles, daughter of Mrs. Robert Peebles, and Edwin Winslow Crosby was solemnized today at high noon at the bride's home on Bath avenue.

Rev. Dr. A. C. Condit of the First Presbyterian church, who officiated, read the ever beautiful and impressive double ring ceremony.

"Before an improvised altar that had been arranged in the music room, where tall cathedral candles lent a soft glow, orange blossoms, white roses, lilies, and a profusion of palms, ferns and sunflowers had been arranged in a most beautifully bedecked fashion. Here the ceremony that united the happy couple in marriage was performed.

"While Nelson Weedon, who presided at the piano, played softly the wedding march, Hilda Peebles and Harriet Woods, young nieces of the bride, dressed in fluffy white frocks, held in a like fashion, garlands of white roses and ribbon, through which the bride party passed to the altar. The groom, with his best man, Mr. Carl Stroehman, were the first to meet Dr. Condit who awaited them. Miss Ruth Peebles, sister of the bride, followed, wearing a most becoming gown of Bluette Crepe and carrying a wonderful shower bouquet of pink roses.

"Little Frances Woods, dainty in the softest white, scattered along the way rose petals and airy blossoms for the bride, who followed, most charming in an exquisite costume of white satin, its beauty enhanced by touches of silver and rare old lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and valley lilies.

"Immediately after the ceremony a luncheon was served to the guests, who were only the near friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

Throughout the entire lower floor, save the dining-room, white roses, sunflowers and various greens were used most effectively, with an interspersing of orange blossoms, that had been sent by relatives from California, to make more complete the decorations for the bridal day.

"The dining room color effects were carried out in delicate tones of pink. The oval shaped table alight with candles held as its central adornment, and exquisite basket, holding to its fullness, shaded pink roses. Here also, where the younger members of the invited company were seated was the necessary and beautiful pink bride's cake. A delicious luncheon course followed the ceremony.

"The bride is one of Ashland's most cultured and talented young women. Especially is she favored because of her sweetness and gentleness of nature, while the groom, who has only been a resident in Ashland for a few years, has made for himself an enviable place as a progressive and popular young business man. At the conclusion of a brief wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Crosby will be at their home to their friends at 404 West Bath avenue.

"Among those present were: Mrs. A. G. Crosby, mother of the groom, whose home is in West Medford, Mass.; Dr. W. C. Condit, Miss Mary Ford Condit, Rev. and Mrs. H. V. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. John Peebles of Portsmouth, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. C. & O. Fireman Says He Was Forced To Quit

Nerves Gave Way and He Couldn't Stand The Noise And Jolting Of Engine, States Sharpe—Now Well.

"My health got so bad that I had to give up railroading, but since taking Tanlac I could fire an engine as good as any man on the C. & O.," said Geo. P. Sharpe, 1628 Tremont St., Cincinnati, Ohio, formerly with the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, and now a valued employee of the Lokenheimer Co.

"About five years ago I had an operation which finally resulted in a general breakdown. I couldn't eat without bloating up so bad I could hardly breathe. Then, my nerves gave way, I could hardly stand the jolting and noise of the engine and train, and sleep was next to impossible. I lost weight and had so many dizzy spells I just had to change to lighter work as none of the many medicines I tried did me any good.

"But Tanlac helped me right from the start, and now I am again in perfect health, and am just as strong and well as I ever was. I wouldn't think of being without Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists—Advertisement.

The beautiful Elk hall room was the scene last evening of one of the most delightful social gatherings of the week when the members of the Junior-Senior class of the Portsmouth High School assembled there for their farewell banquet. Under the skillful touch of Miss Lucy Hall, the faculty member, and the Juniors, the commodious hall room, which affords an ideal place for a large affair, was never more attractive than on this occasion. The four long tables were beautifully decorated in pink Dorothy Perkins roses and crystal candlesticks holding maize tapers and canopied in pink shades. Sprays of yellow roses, tied with Copenhagen blue ribbons, and carrying out the Senior class colors of maize and open blue, were given as favors.

In the receiving line were the officers of the Junior class and Miss Lucy Hall, the faculty member. The officers are James Ruggles, President; Paul Brunner, vice-president; Benjamine Copas, secretary; and Glenn Cox, treasurer.

Miss Edna Bell who is to retire at the close of the present school year after 50 years as a teacher in the local schools, most of the time being spent at P. H. S., was the guest of honor at the banquet.

"Come Let Us Talk In The Language of Flowers" was the theme chosen for the evening, and the smiles and the merriment of the evening spoke in the flower language of happiness, while the toasts that were given were wittily interwoven with this happy thought.

Two hundred and ten guests were seated around the four long tables for the bounteous feast which was faultlessly prepared and served by Caterer Dyke and his able assistants.

At the close of the feast, James Lee Ruggles, toastmaster and president of the Junior class, introduced the speakers. He arose to the occasion with the ease of one accustomed to making after dinner speeches every evening. The toasts which were given follow.

Class of '22—"The Yellow Rose Leaves Pay Toll to June"—Bertha Moore.

The Senior Girls—"Here Are Sweet Pens On Tip-Toe for a Flight"—Howard McNamara.

The Boys of '22—"What would the rose with all her pride be worth, were there no sun to call her brightness forth?"—Ruth Lloyd.

Our Guest, Miss Bell—"In many a sunny spot, there blooms the dear Forget-me-not"—Lawrence Foster.

My Favorite Flowers—"The Lily of the Vale, queen of flowers"—Miss Bell.

The Junior Girls—"She's a Daisy; she's a darling"—Frederick Peile.

The Junior Boys—"Sweet Williams of most varied hue"—Jane Bothwell.

School Days—"There's Rosemary, that's for remembrance; There is Pansies, that's for thoughts"—Audrey Wilson.

Detention Room—"Brambles grow wild and thorns abide"—James Gower.

Our Teachers—"Not sleep that makes me nod," the Sunflower said, "But too much weight and largeness of the head"—Genevieve Lantz.

P. H. S.—"We have made a nosegay of culled flowers, and here is the thread that ties them together"—Howard Harris.

After the banquet there was a brief intermission, followed by a dance continuing until a late hour. Music was furnished by Baesman's Orchestra.

The committee on arrangements, consisting of the class president, Jas. Ruggles, Joan Purcell, Audrey Wilson, Howard McNamara and Thomas Brock, was assisted in preparing the affair by Miss Lucy Hall who is faculty member for the Junior Class, and to these six is due the credit for the most delightful social event in many years.

Mrs. Chris Young, Third and Gay streets will entertain members of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church, at her home Monday afternoon. The meeting was postponed from last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Stahele, Mansfield, Ohio, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Forrest, 1311 Park avenue.

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Big!" called down a cross voice out of the old hickory tree

NANCY and Nick were doing an errand for Mr. Peernout, the Man-in-the-Moon.

Mr. Peernout said something was wrong because on some nights when he had a fine, clear, bright moon for folks, the very next day he'd get complaints about it being pale 'n' misty 'n' cloudy 'n' things like that.

So the Twins were watching. The sun went to bed and all at once there was the old moon over the tree-tops. It had been there all along, only it seemed to get bright just in a minute.

"The moon looks all right now," said Nick. "Mr. Peernout said he would make it look like a dollar to-night. Only it looks more like a hundred dollars, it's so big."

"Big!" called down a cross voice out of the old hickory tree. "Big! I should say it is. But just you wait, it'll get fixed or my name isn't Chris Crow."

"Who'll fix it?" asked Nick. "and how?"

"Oh, I gotta friend," boasted Chris. "You see I got tired of that old moon nebbling about."

"Old Mr. Peernout's got the idea that folks want a moon all the time, and he's everlastingly bringing the old thing around when it's not wanted."

"Here it is—a week past corn-planting and the grains are just sprouted enough to be delicious. But I can't even look at the corn. Old Scare-Crow would see me."

"But I gotta friend," he went on. "It's Comet-Legs! He doesn't like Peernout. He'll blow the moon out for me."

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Margaret Resslering, and Mr. Carl Warner, was formally made at a charming dinner given in honor of Miss Resslering by the teachers of the Garfield school, Thursday evening at the "Mury Louise" tea room.

Daisies and roses carried out a pink and white color effect, which marked all of the table appointments. A delicious four course dinner was served, after which the evening was spent socially. Miss Resslering was presented with a handsome silver bandolier lamp by the teachers.

Those enjoying the evening were: Miss Margaret Resslering, the honored guest; Mrs. Kate Resslering, Miss Stella McCall, Olive Chinn, Laurel Long, Mary Brock, Mary Monroe, Margaret Dawson, Mildred Zuckler, Julia Haas, Ella Davis, Mabel Hollenbeck, Bessie Allison, Fontella Warman, Blanche Heffer, Ruby Cryer, Grace Mooney, Effie Shackelford, Mary Hopkins and Mrs. Ida Spears.

The After Effects Of Colds and Influenza

There is real danger in the after effects of colds and influenza because these attacks leave their victims with a cough or in a weakened condition, wide open to the attacks of other illness.

You can build up your lowered resisting power by taking Father John's Medicine, the pure food elements of which strengthen and nourish the system. Father John's Medicine soothes and heals the lining of the breathing passages and being a real food medicine builds new strength and flesh without using dangerous drugs.—Advertisement.

FREE BIBLE LECTURE

IN EASTLAND THEATRE, PORTSMOUTH, OHIO, SUNDAY, JUNE 4th AT 2:30 P. M.

By ARCH W. SMITH, Of Columbus, Ohio

TOPIC

The Blessing Of All The Families Of The Earth—Millions Now Living Will Never Die

Had it not been for the gleam of hope, afforded by the statement that the seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head, the race would have been in utter despair; but this promise indicated that God had some plan for their benefit. When to Abraham God swore that in his seed all the families of the earth should be blessed, (Gen. 28:14) it implied a resurrection or restitution of all; for many were then dead, and others have since died, unblessed. Nevertheless the promise is still sure: all shall be blessed when the times of restitution or refreshing shall come. (Acts 3:19.) Moreover, since blessings indicate favor, and since God's favor was withdrawn and His curse came instead because of sin, this promise of a future blessing implied the removal of the curse, and consequently a return of His favor, it also implied either that God would relent, change His decree and clear the guilty race or else that He had some plan by which it could be redeemed, by having man's penalty paid by another.

Linda Lee Inc.

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

After five years of married life, Linda Lee, a new York society woman, concluded that wealth, youth, beauty, social position and sincere love, were not sufficient to hold the affection of her husband, BELAMY DRUCE. Weak-willed and selfish, Bel had been guilty of a series of escapades in which promiscuous flirtation and drunkenness had combined to humiliate his wife.

A broken promise to reform caused Lucinda to leave him. Bel follows her to Chicago and is prevented from forcibly restraining her from going to Reno by the intervention of an unidentified young man.

On the train, Lucinda meets her old friend, FANNY LONTAINE, who with her husband is going to Hollywood, where HARRY LONTAINE is thinking of forming a motion picture company. She learns that the young man who assisted her in escaping from Bel is also on the train and that he is LYNN SUMMERLAD, a prominent screen star.

Lucinda has agreed to join the proposed motion picture company to make the star role.

In Los Angeles Mrs. Druce, now known as Linda Lee, in the Linda Lee Inc. motion picture Co., becomes so interested that Lucinda easily persuades her to furnish the capital for the producing of the pictures.

The weeks drag by and no work started on the proposed picture although the heavy expenses are going on. LONTAINE and SUMMERLAD assure Linda Lee that it costs money to make pictures. Summerlad makes love to Linda and she more than half reciprocates. Nelly Marquis appears

"You forget what I don't Bel," Lucinda said slowly, "that it was you who made the mode of life with which I was content impossible for me. If this life I've taken up here is in some sense a makeshift, it's all I've got to take the place of all I had. And now you'd rob me even of it! And one thing more you forget. If I should give in to your wishes and leave Hollywood today, I would only be doing what you may want to prevent, confessing by flight that my only real interest in my picture work was my greater interest in Lynn Summerlad. For that reason alone—and not, as you believe, to spite you—I've got to and I'm going to go on to the end of this present production, at least. After that . . . I don't know . . ."

Discontented, "I hadn't thought of that," Bel owned squarely. "You may be right . . . That's your last word, Linda."

"My last word to you, Bel — I hope."

THE finding of Nelly's body crushed beneath the wreckage of a motor-car on the beach some fifty miles north of Los Angeles, gave the story of the Summerlad shooting an extended lease of twenty-four hours only on front page space in the newspapers.

Then, since the death of the unhappy woman had defeated all hope of a lurid court proceeding and rendered poignant exploitation of "wild life inside the movie colony," the case went into quick eclipse.

Lucinda spent the best part of that day in the projection-room with Zinn and Wallace Day, her new director, sitting in judgment on thirty-six reels of film, the accumulated sum of Nolan's fumbling with about two-thirds of a picture.

To the weariness of those days the visit of Harford Willis came as a welcome interlude.

It did Lucinda good to hear him growl and scold about anything as relatively inconsiderable as the lunacy of throwing money away—"like water"—and then refusing to set the machinery of the law in motion to apprehend and punish LONTAINE.

And Lucinda took leave of him with dewy eyes. . . . her one true friend . . .

Now she had nobody left but Fanny; and she was coming daily to repose less faith in Fanny's loyalty. She was feeling very sorry for herself and very lonely, and when most in need of friendly companionship—Fanny was seldom at her call. Fanny had to give up the bungalow and moved to a residential hotel on the outskirts of the Wilshire district, whose accommodations she claimed were cheaper than the Hollywood's.

Deep in Lucinda's subconsciousness an incidental recollection turned in its sleep. Somewhere, sometime, she had heard that Barry Nolan had a bungalow down Wilshire way. Or hadn't he?

A week from the night of their reunion in Summerlad's bungalow, Lucinda called to tell Linda Lee she was leaving for New York the next morning. Zinn would take charge of his producing interests during his absence. He couldn't say just how long that might be. If he could be of any service to Lucinda in the east, he would be glad . . .

"Goodbye, Bel," she said, with not unkind decision but decision unmistakable for all that. "And good luck. But . . . please never come back. . . ."

That night she sobbed herself awake from dreams of dear days dead, and lay for hours hating the cheerless comfort of hotel rooms, missing poignantly the intimacy of her home and the sense of security she had known nowhere else.

And in the morning and morning after morning, she rose with a heart as heavy as any she had ever known to address herself to the daily grind.

Yet she had no right to whimper. The new director was living up to all Zinn's claims. There was no friction, and under his sympathetic guidance she felt she was doing better work than she had ever hoped to do.

But she counted hourly the tale of the days.

Twice she heard from Summerlad: on the day following Belamy's departure, a pencilled scrawl, informing her that he was now permitted to receive callers and protesting his impatience for the visit which he knew her charity would not permit her to deny him; and four days later another letter and a longer, bringing proof of steady improvement in less infirm penmanship and phrases turned over more carefully, repeating all the first had said and calling attention to the venerable saw about the ill wind; on the writer's side at least every impediment to their marriage had been abolished . . .

In the upshot Lucinda acknowledged receipt of neither, but for two mornings her waste-basket, with its deep drifts of note-paper minutely scrawled, bore witness to her endeavors to frame a reply at once final and not too cruel.

Better (she decided) send no word at all than a letter which could only hurt his pride . . . if Lynn still believed he loved her . . . if he had ever . . .

For her part, the thing was dead and done and finished and as something that had never been; the only wonder was it ever had . . .

One evening, as she was leaving the studio, she met Wallace Day on the steps of the administration building, and learned from him that, making fair allowance for every imaginable delay, he counted on making an end to camera-work in two days more.

Accordingly, instead of going directly home to the Hollywood, Lucinda motored to Los Angeles and booked reservations for Reno.

On her way back to Hollywood she instructed her chauffeur to make a detour and stop at Fanny's hotel.

Drawing near the hotel, she recognized the conspicuous car of Barry Nolan walking at the carriage-block, and as she bent forward to tell her chauffeur not to stop, she saw Fanny come out of the entrance. Nolan smiling, with an air of contented habit, at her elbow.

Well! that was that . . .

Yet it was long before the picture faded of that girlish figure, poised prettily in startled, brief skirts whipped about it by the evening wind, with its gay look of mirth, half shame-faced, half-impudent, wholly charming . . . sweet grief for the mills whose grinding knows no rest.

and unpunished.

She caught the train with little to spare, and not until it was in motion did she discover a box of roses in the luggage rack in her drawing-room.

Her favorites, Hadleys, two dozen surely molded blooms of deepest crimson, exquisitely fresh and fragrant; roses such as Bel had been accustomed to send her daily, once upon a time . . . how long ago! . . .

The age since any one had sent her flowers . . .

The box bore the name of a city florist but was untagged and contained no card to identify the donor.

She lifted shaking hands to him, cried his name again, swayed blindly into his arms.

"Take me back, Bel," she whispered. "Make me happy . . . Be kind to me, Bel, be fair . . ."

Lifeless Body Of H. H. Canter Found Near Mabees Corner; Bullet In Head

(Special To Times)

JACKSON, O., June 3.—For the second time in a week the lifeless body of a man was found in the woods. The body of Asa Viers was found near the Kessinger school house a week ago and yesterday that of Henry Harrison Canter was found on the Spriggs farm down on the Mabees pike.

It was discovered by George Miller, who lives on the farm, in the evening as he was going for his cows. It was lying in a deep, steep hollow, lying head foremost against a tree, with a 32-calibre target rifle with an exploded cartridge near him. As he had been dead about eight or ten days the body was in such a condition as to prevent an examination. It was thus impossible to find whether he was shot accidentally or had died from natural causes. Mr. Canter was about 60 years of age. He is survived by one daughter, Miss Myrtle Canter, living in Cincinnati, a brother and two sisters.

Battery B Drills

Battery B, 134th Field Artillery held their regular drill last night with a large turn out of members. It was their last drill at the Armory on Fourth and Court streets, they having moved their equipment to the Massie building, Second and Market, where the drills will be held. Preparations are also being made for the summer activities.

IRONTON BOY DROWNS

IRONTON, June 3.—The murky waters of the Ohio claimed their first victim of this summer Friday when Kenneth Frazier, eleven year old son of M. P. Frazier of Depot Square was drowned after jumping from a boat occupied by himself and his older brother Willard Frazier age 13. The sad mishap occurred near the Kelly Mill landing when the boys lost the oars of their craft. The older brother jumped in and swam to shore to get a piece of wire so that he might pull the boat to shore. Kenneth became frightened and leaped overboard, disappearing beneath the waters' surface after a brief struggle. The body has not been recovered.

Held Under Bond For Assault On Playwright While On High Seas

BALTIMORE, June 3.—John Broadhurst Symon, member of the wrecking firm of Symon Brothers, San Francisco, was held under $5,000 bond today for assaulting George Broadhurst, playwright and manager of the Broadhurst Theatre, New York, on the high seas. Symon was arrested by department of justice agents when the steamship Columbia, from San Francisco, docked here.

At the hearing Mr. Broadhurst described an attack upon him in his stateroom on the night of May 20. Shortly after 11 o'clock that night, Mr. Broadhurst testified, because of the disturbance in the adjoining cabin, he went into the hallway. He addressed occupants of the room, saying:

"Boys, you've had a nice long party and now I suggest that you get to bed and give somebody else a chance."

Returning to his cabin, Mr. Broadhurst said, he climbed into a berth and lay there five or ten minutes. Suddenly a man whom he recognized as Symon, stripped of clothing, rushed into his cabin, grabbed him and hurled him to the floor, his head striking against a trunk. He said Symon hit him several blows in the face and kicked him in the groin, he then "lapsed" into semi-consciousness. He is still under a doctor's care, he said.

Joseph J. Mahoney, of San Francisco, a passenger testifying for the defense, practically corroborated Broadhurst's testimony, except that he said that Mr. Broadhurst had entered Symon's cabin where they had been drinking.

Symon made no statement.

Agricultural Notes

EDITORIAL NOTE—The Times has arranged for an agricultural department in each issue of The Saturday Times. The articles will be written by an expert and we unhesitatingly advise their careful reading. They may be of great profit to you.

A farmer in Scioto County got very, very few eggs this past winter during November, December and January. These birds ate feed just the same. It didn't make much difference to the hens whether they produced eggs or not. As a result of this lack of production the few dozens of eggs that he secured during the months mentioned cost him $1.35 per dozen, feed cost alone. He probably sold the eggs for about 50c a dozen on an average. Do you get the significance of this? Most of the farmers are producing eggs this way continually, losing money on each dozen produced during the winter. This man lost 80c on each dozen of eggs produced. In other words he was paying some one 80c a dozen for the fun he got out of feeding and caring for the hens. We hope some one got the fun if this gentleman didn't.

The gentleman mentioned had sickness in his flock thru no fault of his own, which is very apt to happen occasionally to most anyone. However, the person who gets very late pullets or doesn't take care of his early hatched ones is in exactly the same boat as regards profits as the man mentioned previously.

If you don't get eggs regardless of the reason you'll never make much money in the chicken business. The point to all of this is to give your chicks the proper care now so you will get some eggs next winter.

It probably costs about 75c to rear a pullet to maturity. Now this investment of 75c in this pullet must be returned by Feb. 1st or else this pullet is a money loser. Records show that from February on, yearling hens produce as many eggs as pullets. The Wooster Experiment Station says that a pullet must produce approximately 30 eggs more during the year than a yearling hen if she is to be more profitable. Therefore, unless this pullet pays for her cost of rearing before the hens start in the spring they are money losers and a poor investment. Not much better than some rubber stocks. This means that pullets must produce in the winter to be profitable, which means they must be hatched early and given the best of care throughout the summer. Milk is the best tonic in the world for chicks. It makes them grow faster, makes them healthier and less susceptible to disease. By all means see to it that your growing stock has milk of some kind. If the home grown isn't available get some semi-solid buttermilk; but get the milk. Milk is the one thing that is best to make a pullet come into laying at the right time in the fall.

In addition to this milk, a good dry nest should be available at all times. This should be placed in a place comfortable for the chicks to eat. In the shade of that old apple tree is probably as good a place as any for it.

From now on it is alright to hope for feed both the grain and mash if they are on range. A good range of alfalfa, clover or bluegrass is ideal and insures a much more satisfactory growth. Shade of some sort is necessary. As soon as the corn gets up it is fine.

If your chicks are on the ground that the chicks have always been reared on, this is the year to move them to new ground. Disease is beginning to appear now in many flocks because of contaminated ground. Move them if at all possible.

Jefferson Township Reports
The Jefferson township pig club and the Local Workers Poultry club met at the Flatwoods school house, Wednesday, May 24th. The pig club members reported as having secured their pigs, weighed in, and record keeping begun. The poultry club members are progressing nicely and good reports were made by those present. They are carefully following the instructions sent out by the club department on chick rearing.

Mr. A. B. Stambaugh, project leader for small fruits, last week demonstrated that he is on the job and doing his work as it should be done. The raspberry growers of his community have been experiencing for several seasons what has been termed by themselves "Berry Blight" for want of a better name. Some years it is quite serious destroying as much as 25 per cent of the crop; others years much less. All damage is usually done in a few days. This year the disease was first noticed by Mr. Stambaugh on Thursday, May 18th. On Friday he notified the County Agent and by Monday noon he had secured the services of R. B. Wilcox of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture who has spent the last three years in northern Ohio in the study of raspberry diseases working with berry growers in that section of the state. He is recognized as one of the best informed men on his subject in the United States.

Mr. Wilcox stated that the Jefferson Township growers had named the disease as well as could be named as that was what it really is, and is caused by a fungus that develops rapidly under conditions caused by cloudy weather and heavy rainfall. In clear, sunny weather the fungus rarely develops. This disease will not likely increase in the damage done to any infection from plant to plant.

While here Mr. Wilcox made a very careful survey of several fields and discovered a new disease known as "Blue Stem," which you will hear more about later on this year. It is probable that Mr. Wilcox can meet with the growers again this season for a field meeting where all interested can learn to detect it so that they can begin roguing it out of their fields. By this method and careful selection of plants it can probably be pretty well controlled.

Mr. Wilcox will also probably be one of the speakers at the big mid-winter corn show at Lucasville.

AUTO HITS WALL; WHEEL IS SMASHED

When the Oakland touring car driven by E. W. Williams, 3726 Maple Park, Cincinnati, skidded on the wet paving and crashed into the wall of the underground crossing between this city and Lucasville Friday, a rear wheel was torn off the machine, but the driver and other occupants were not injured.

The persons in the car were enroute to New Boston to visit relatives.

"Gold! Gold!"

BACK in the '40's it took months for the thrilling news of California's gold strike to cross the continent. Today, a few hours after so important a discovery, the entire story would be known to newspaper readers throughout the country.

In the early days, news spread by word of mouth. Today, the telegraph and telephone speed the message into the newspaper office, it is rushed into type, the paper is printed and shortly the news becomes public property.

There are two kinds of news in the paper. One consists of the affairs of other people; their sayings, doings and what they're going to do; things that have happened, may happen and didn't happen.

The other kind of news is about your affairs. That's the part you'll find in the advertisements. There's a lot of valuable news there about things you want or will want; things that have to do with your own personal comfort, convenience and every-day efficiency.

Every advertisement carries a personal message to some one. Many advertisements carry messages of vital interest or value to you.

That's why you can't afford to miss the advertisements.

Read them. The advertisements are decidedly valuable to you.

American Aviators Held In Mexico On Alleged Plot Story

JUAREZ, MEXICO, June 3.—Two Mexican citizens were killed, two American aviators were arrested and a former officer of the Mexican army detained in connection with the investigation of revolutionary plots in Mexico Tuesday, according to official word received here today.

Colonel Ernesto Argias and Rosendo Valasquez were arrested at Irapuato Guanajuato on a charge of being implicated in plots to make General Felix Diaz president of Mexico.

Enroute to Celera for trial, friends attempted to free them. In the attack on the military escort, two prisoners were killed and two soldiers wounded.

At Jalapa, Vera Cruz, two American aviators whose names were not given were arrested after they were said to have imported two airplanes, ostensibly for exhibition purposes. Federal authorities said they discovered that the two aviators had leased the machines to revolutionists.

Maurice I. O. Beltran, former Mexican army officer, was arrested on a charge of being implicated with the Americans.

Investigation of what officers say they believe to be an extensive ammunition smuggling plot, was begun here today. The inquiry follows the discovery of 15,000 rounds of pistol ammunition billed as farming implements at the local express office.

PRISONER ESCAPES

The Vanceburg Sun, Friday, said: While Sheriff Callahan of Greenup, was returning from Richmond, Ky., with Luther Roe, wanted at Greenup for non-support of his family, the prisoner dived through the window of the car while the train was in rapid motion and escaped.

To Repair Alloys

A force of men from the Brunswick Balke Collander Company of Cincinnati will start work Monday, putting the Pennant Alloys in shape for the next bowling season, according to Ed Spangler. Part of the pine flooring will be taken up and an eight foot maple extension will be laid.

To Investigate Into Charge Of Immorality Of Western Official

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., June 3.—The Los Angeles county civil service commission today recommended that the grand jury investigate charges of immorality preferred against Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney, by Miss Ida Wright Jones, formerly an investigator in his office.

Miss Jones was recently discharged by Woolwine with the statement that he had learned she had planned to relate a series of episodes in which she claimed they had both participated according to her story, for the purpose of discrediting Woolwine politically. He has since announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor.

After the discharge, Miss Jones made formal complaint to the civil service commission.

In a statement, Mr. Woolwine said that two members of the commission had engineered one of the most dastardly, cowardly, villainous and groundless attacks ever launched against a public official in California.

BOXING FANS ALL SET FOR FISTIC TREAT IN THE WINTER GARDEN NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Great Card Is Arranged At Popular Prices; Double Main Go Will Be The Big Feature

Since Steve Carter and Frankie Wells both knocked their opponents out in Chillicothe Thursday night, the local boxing fans are more anxious than ever to see these two clever milt artists perform in Portsmouth, and from all indications the Auditorium will be taxed to capacity Monday night.

All of the local fans who saw Carter Thursday night say he is a regular wild cat in action and that he and Blair will put up the greatest bout even seen in this city. Both men are exactly the same weight and build and their style of fighting is the same in every respect. Both of the batters go in wide open and are not afraid of taking a few punches if they can shoot a few back in return. Carter will certainly know he has not been to any pink tea affair with Blair and unless he has a great deal of respect for Blair's ability as a K. O. artist there is every possibility of his hearing the birdies sing. He says he is going to give the local fans a good run for their money, win or lose. Blair's attitude in accepting any boxer the commission sees fit to select for him has instilled in the good graces of all and with this spirit can depend on the support of both the commission and the fans at all times.

Brookline Chapman's manager says if his boy doesn't give Frankie Wells the sweetest lacing he ever got he doesn't want a dime for his trouble. Chapman has been trying to meet Wells for the past several months and is making under 125 pounds for the express purpose of showing Wells that he can not only make the weight limit, but give him a few lessons as well. Of course, Wells will have something to say about taking a few boxing lessons from Chapman, and in any event the fans are sure to see some action.

Kayo Clark and Jack Major are also to be commended for their attitude. Both of these local boys came to the commission and stated their willingness to meet any boxer the commission would select for them. The commission says these are the kind of boxers who are going to get the preference in all future shows. Clark and Major have shown the boxing public that they are not stallers and can be depended upon to furnish plenty of action any time they start. In Mitchell and Snell of Springfield the Portsmouth boxers are meeting two good battlers who are coming to Portsmouth with the hope of being able to play a return date. It looks like some card from all indications.

TIGERS REINSTATED

CHICAGO, June 3.—Ty Cobb and Harry Holman of the Detroit club of the American League, who were suspended following an argument during a game at St. Louis recently, were reinstated this afternoon by Ban Johnson, president of the league, and will be eligible to play tomorrow. Mr. Johnson announced. His decision on the case will be handed down in a few days, he said.

RATHER A DIFFERENT SORT

GIFFORD PINCHOT is a reformer who pays rather than prays.
 It isn't just exactly clear what he wants to reform, but it is certain he would reform something since for 10 years he has been telling us things were wrong, or going to be, and he had the only cure, though he always kept the secret of it pretty much to himself.
 But there isn't any doubt about his paying ability and his willingness thereof; the figures are not open to dispute. He put out the colossal sum of $117,000 to procure the Republican nomination for governor of Pennsylvania, which even that is a rather modest amount in Pennsylvania. He put up the bulk of the money himself and isn't sharing the credit with one, which otherwise wouldn't be after his style. For according to Gifford Pinchot there was never but one equal to the said Gifford Pinchot that paraded the earth; and that was Teddy Roosevelt.
 He will be elected governor, no doubt of that, with a half million beasty majority to start with. The only thing certain he will do as such is that he will make less noise and do less than his great model.

HAVE YOU GOT YOURS?

ALL world-war bond issues went to par and better, on the New York market, Wednesday.
 Sales ran up into millions and more than one transaction involved seven figures.
 Thus has come to pass what this wise old Oracle has always told you would.
 It needn't surprise if all bonds would go at a premium, but there are a couple of spectres right out there in the offing that may hold them back for a while, the bonus bill and war savings stamps. The bonus will pass and it is going to require billions to finance it. If any other way than the foreign debts are to be resorted to for that purpose the government can't get away from issuing more bonds and that inevitably will depress all. Then there are the war savings stamps of the 1918 issue to be paid off January 1st next. There are no funds on hand for the purpose and that, in all likelihood will call for the issuance of more bonds.
 It is rather comforting for those who subscribed for bonds as a patriotic duty and still held on to them, to have them come back to face value, but the fly in that ointment must be the realization that figure it as you will this country is in for more taxes.
 They make Big Talk over at Washington about the Harding administration saving millions by retrenchment in governmental departments, but it is all talk. Cutting down expenses in one bureau and adding on a half dozen others and numberless commissions doesn't get anywhere, especially not when increases of out-go are being piled up by the billions.

A nation's afflictions would be decreased if the McCormick-Rockefeller clan would take their nuptial difficulties over to Europe. It has enough to suffer without being afflicted with the turmoil of the fancy of a girl of 17.

Kicks are still coming in about that road along the vicinity of Franklin Furnace. This time next year there will be a brick road there and not a darn mortal will think to say a single word in appreciation of it. It is damned if you don't and not a "cheep" if you do, the lot of commissioners.

Thursday evening Portsmouth entertained the big executives of the Whitaker-Glossner Steel Company and its co-ordinate companies. That was just twenty-one years and a day since the announcement was made of the coming here of the company. It was a joyous intelligence, but not one's enthusiasm ran so high as to predict that twenty years would see Portsmouth the site of one of the greatest iron plants in the country.

That flurry about removals in the treasury department scarce rose to designation as a tempest in a tea pot.

England is laying plans to capture Dublin. Yet some people say Ireland isn't free. Sad to say Irishmen are fighting among themselves over whether she is or not.

Governor Davis has got all the Republican candidates on the rack because none of them will unqualifiedly declare for his wonderful centralization of departments plan. Must be a poor idea at that when no fellow dares speak a good word for it.

Released From Madman's Chains

Mrs. John Jenkins (center) and Miss Kathryn McManis were chained in a pit in a shack near Omaha, Neb., by a madman. H. B. Boyd, going to their rescue, also was chained. While the maniac was digging a grave for Boyd, Boyd freed himself and the women.

THE BIBLE IN PICTURES AND TEXT

By HELEN E. CHURCHILL

THE PEOPLE OF ISRAEL JOURNEY

TWELVE princes of Israel, heads of their tribes, brought their offerings before the Lord, six covered wagons with twelve oxen. Moses gave these to the Levites in which to carry the parts of the tabernacle. The ark and other precious things were to be carried upon their shoulders. The pillar of cloud guided them, when it was taken up from the tabernacle the people journeyed and where the cloud abode they pitched their tents. Each tribe carried a banner.
 And God commanded Moses to make two silver trumpets for the priests to blow when they wanted to call the people together.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MONTAGUE

NEW YORK, June 3.—The first showing of a "flumm" for Broadway consumption takes place in a small projection room in an office building on West Forty-Second Street. Upon this occasion only members of the cast, the directors, scenario writers and others intimately connected with the making are present.
 It is the players' hour for "back-scratching." Even the director steps out of his haughty role and spreads pretty compliments. It catches the celluloid heroes and heroines with the make-up off. They speak in the argot of the lots about "cut-backs," "chummy streaks" and double exposures.
 The star and director pull their comfortable chairs together and whisper confidences. The old character woman—blind on the screen—"mothers" the younger girls and sees in each one a potential Mary Pickford. She appears to feel that she can hold her job only by flattering the others.
 In the background—true to his role—hovers the villain. He is selected for his hawk nose, beady eyes and cruel mouth. Yet in real life he seems to drip obedience. When the star greets him afterward with "You did splendidly," the villain abuses himself in servile-like mutterings of "gratitude."
 Even the man who owns the trained dogs is there to share in the glory. The chief fear expressed is that the film, while of course an obvious masterpiece, will not be a box-office favorite. Art is art, but when a star shares in the receipts—well, it makes him, commercially thoughtful.
 The temptress who lures the hero to the very brink of ruin is very demure "off location" in gingham dress and youthful pique-bonnet. She doesn't smoke and even blushes when the star pinches her cheek and tells her that for looks she "grosses a million."
 All like to admit that there is much "hokum," but even so, they plead, that is what the public wants and it will take years to educate people to a higher standard. For after all, you know, the moving picture industry is only in its infancy. O, dear, yes!
 Gerald Britigan was, until a few weeks ago, city editor of the New York Globe and a capable executive. All his life, however, he has been a reporter and the urge to write, to go out into new adventure and to meet new faces was strong. The other week he resigned and became a reporter again. "Now I am supremely happy," he declares.

There ought to be a law against great statesmen using the same photograph for thirty years that they had taken the day they were admitted to the bar. Next to being president of Mexico, our idea of short lived glory is being queen of May.

THE EARLY CATCH

Safety First
 The second act had come to an end and the curtain had fallen. Suddenly those near the stage became conscious of a stir and a hurrying behind the scenes. A faint smell began to pervade the atmosphere; smoke came from the wings.
 In an instant the same thought struck everyone, and the same word left every lip. "Fire."
 A stampede seemed imminent. Then the hero of the hour arose from his seat in the orchestra.
 "Keep your seats," he shouted. His words and manner reassured the terror-stricken people in the theatre. Shamefacedly, they sank back one by one into their seats. Slowly the man strode to where there was an open avenue of escape. Then, without a moment's hesitation, he rushed for the door. Once outside, he mopped his forehead, and murmured, breathlessly, "Well, someone's saved, anyway."

Doc Koko's KOLUM

Pure Luck
 Hank: "How did you convince your wife that you could not afford to buy a motor car?"
 Frank: "Pure luck on my part. She wanted to clean an old dress, and bought a gallon of gasoline."

Didn't Know Why
 "Now, my son," said the conscientious father, "tell me why I punished you."
 "That's it," blubbered the boy indignantly. "First you pound the daylight out of me, and now you don't know why you done it!"
